

ROSES, FLOWERS AND PLANTS

FRESH CUT ROSE

South America as a whole, enjoys one of the finest weathers and altitude variations on earth, making it the most biodiverse region of all. Its rose and flower growers are probably the most experienced, as generations of South American family-owned plantations dominate the fresh cut flower industry on all international markets. Most of their own, patented rose and flower varieties and genetics are traceable to Switzerland, Holland, the Ecuadoran Andean valleys and its subtropical forests, the one and only Brazilian Amazon rainforest or to the Argentinian Pampas or Chilean valleys.

Southlander proudly represents literally hundreds of these growers, and delivers to its clients and partners in commerce the most varied offer of fresh cut roses and assorted flower bouquets, overnight everywhere in the world, using the best of the best, as only The Southlander Catalogue could in order to establish itself as the ultimate partner in commerce when it comes to premium South American processed and feedstock products.
